'Y' Offers Colorful Camping

A long-term camping program in a truly "exotic" setting is offered this year by the Los Angeles YMCA. It was announced yesterday by Stan Roberts, Executive secretary of the organization's Torrance branch.

This is the sixth year the Y has operated Camp Mozumdar, originally built for religious worship by an Indian prince, who was a devoted Christian.

With a program designated for boys 9 to 14 years old, Mozumdar, originally built has spacious lodge for recreation and dining, a tile swimming pool, an outdoor amphitheater overlooking the vast Mojave desert and, to add to the setting, a domantic temple built to resemble the Taj Mahal.

The camp is located in the Crestline area of the San Bernardino mountains. Boys can stay for two, four, six weeks.

The program includes swimming, hiking, horseback riding, rifle range activity, archery, overnight camping trips and all the other things that make camping a good experience for boys vacationing from the rigors of the classroom.

Parents wishing to send their boys should contact the Torrance Y and they will be given folders and put in touch with Camp Mozumdar officials.
